

Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages TESOL

The world's borders and travel destinations have expanded, resulting in an society where people are setting their sights beyond their home city, country, and continent. People have a desire to travel the world seeking adventure, culturally rich experiences, freedom, money and global employment opportunities.

We have created a TESOL program to suit the needs of people who want to experience traveling and working in foreign destinations. Our curriculum and training exceeds international certification standards so that YOU can travel and teach English with confidence, anywhere worldwide.

TESOL teachers are in large demand. It is estimated that currently there are anywhere from between 10,000 and 20,000 English teaching jobs available in the world.

English is the number one second language in the world. Internationally, it is estimated that approximately one billion people worldwide are studying or wanting to study the English language. English is the international language of business, trade, science, tourism and the Internet.
